9th INTERNATIONAL WORKING CONFERENCE
ON STORED PRODUCT PROTECTION

9ª CONFERÊNCIA INTERNACIONAL DE PROTEÇÃO
DE PRODUTOS ARMAZENADOS

*Casa de Campo do The Royal Palm Plaza Hotel Resort
15 to 18 October 2006 - Campinas, São Paulo, Brazil*

The Royal Palm Plaza Hotel Resort, Campinas, São Paulo, Brazil

9th IWCSPP

The International Working Conference on Stored Product Protection, a conference which is held every four years in countries at the five continents, is now being held in Brazil, a South American country.

The initial steps for the realization of the conference were taken in 1970, and the first conference was held in Savanna (USA) in 1974. Since then, there have been seven other conferences: Nigeria, USA, Israel, France, Australia, China, and Great Britain.

The main objective of the 9th International Working Conference on Stored Product Protection (9th IWCSPP), to be held from October 15th to October 18th 2006, at The Royal Palm Plaza Hotel Resort, Campinas, São Paulo, Brazil (www.embrapa.br/9thIWCSPP), is to promote exchange in science and technology among several global producing countries.

Traditionally, the conference brings together research scientists, consultants, extension workers, and industrialists involved in the safe storage of the world's durable food commodities, such as grain, legumes, pulses, nuts, beverage crops, and animal foodstuffs.

The event will, once again, nurture the exchange of experiences, technologies, and innovations which stand out in the post-harvest area in the five continents. Such innovations involve scenarios in a scale that ranges from rural properties to large storage facilities, present in several countries.

The event also has the objective of showcasing the Brazilian agribusiness strength and quality to participants from countries of the five continents. Technical visits to Brazil's agricultural, livestock, and industrial sectors are programmed for right after the event, directed towards the South and Center-West regions of the country.

The IWCSPP is internationally coordinated by the International Permanent Committee. The organization of the 9th IWCSPP is under the responsibility of the Local Organizing Committee. The event is promoted by the Ministry of Agriculture, Livestock, and Food Supply, Embrapa and Conab. It is run by the Brazilian Post-harvest Association (ABRAPOS), supported by the research sector, universities, consultants, chemical industries, silo manufacturers, storage industries, and farmers.

PARTICIPANTS

The 9th IWCSPP will have the participation of about 900 people. The group will be composed of Brazilians and foreigners of the most varied sectors that make up the stored product protection sector around the world. About 30 countries participate in the IWCSPP's editions. Australia, China, Great Britain, Israel, Germany, France, United States, India, and Italy traditionally make up the largest delegations of foreign nationalities.

The participating public of the 9th IWCSPP will gather different areas that make up the post-harvest sector, bringing together, in the same environment, scientists, researchers, professors, consultants, extension workers, industrialists, service providers, chemical industries, silo manufacturers, storage industries, and farmers, all of them involved in both conservation and quality of grain, malt, fibers, animal foodstuffs, dehydrated products, and foodstuffs in general.

Those taking part in the event will receive a briefcase containing a copy of the proceedings (containing the keynotes, conference papers, and posters presented) and all marketing papers. Also, the delegate is invited to join the conference dinner, three lunches, and six coffee-breaks (on October 16th, 17th, and 18th).

PARTICIPATION PROPOSAL

The realization of the 9th IWCSPP in South America, and in Brazil in particular, will mark the beginning of a new age for the national post-harvest sector, since the country will be opening its doors to buyers and importers and to competition. Meanwhile, the event provides the sector a unique opportunity to promote its qualities and to absorb know-how.

Therefore, we are pleased to invite your company and/or institution to take part in the group that will make possible this range of benefits to the people and companies that make up the post-harvest sector.

Aiming to bringing together the greatest number possible of companies and/or institutions that make up this sector, several ways of participation are available.
